

STEINHEIL COOK IS EJECTED FROM COURT BY ARMED GUARDS

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Sentences came fast today in the criminal session of the trial of Mrs. Michaela Steinheil, the mother of the late Mrs. Mary J. Steinheil, who was shot by the German police.

As this case was being heard in the Palais de Justice, the Steinheil cook attempted to obtain a hearing to present against her a charge of conspiracy made against her by the attorney general, M. Helle. She was then ejected from the courtroom by armed guards while the crowd stormed.

Then, after a short delay, the case was heard in the hands of the jury by 10 o'clock tonight it is expected.

A great crowd surrounded the Palais de Justice, and when the news of the decision of the Steinheil spread, a stampede broke out in the hall. The crowd was then ejected from the courtroom by armed guards while the crowd stormed.

At the announcement that the woman was not on trial, Mrs. Steinheil became greatly agitated, and she was then ejected from the courtroom by armed guards while the crowd stormed.

SALVATION ARMY DEFEATS FOR 'CELLS CHOICE OF '4'

The Salvation Army decided today to defy the Boston police department, to have the men and women collectors take collection boxes to the streets, beginning Monday, without licenses, and to go to jail without paying any fine or being taken to court.

Col. Albert Gifford, who returned today from New York, where he explained the Boston situation to Commander E. H. Booth, told the BOSTON AMERICAN that the army is going to do so.

He said: "We have decided to return the permits for street collections and permit meetings to the collectors of the Poor. We do not consider that these meetings are under the new legislation. These meetings are held daily from 1 to 3 p. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. on Sunday."

The Salvation Army will collect on these meetings and on the streets of Boston just the same as it always has.

We have sent out letters to our collectors to return the permits to collect money on the streets at our meetings. We have also sent out letters to the collectors of the Poor to return the permits to collect money on the streets at our meetings.

MALE FOUND HANGING FROM TREE IN B

The body of John Durr, twenty-one years old and married, of No. 22 Arnold street, was found hanging from the limb of a tree in the rear of his home at about 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Sophie Henry of No. 11 Ball street, whose house backs up against the Durr home, saw the body hanging from the tree, which is between the two houses, and called Mrs. Henry, who lives in the house, to the scene.

She thought it was some one who had hanged himself, and she called the police. The body was found hanging from the tree, which is between the two houses, and called Mrs. Henry, who lives in the house, to the scene.

REVIVES DEAD RABBIT WOMAN SAYS SHE CAN RESTORE HUMAN LIFE

To demonstrate the readiness of her data that she takes away by means of an electric shock can be restored by the same method, Dr. L. B. Robinson, of New York and Paris, in the presence of a large gathering of physicians and surgeons, demonstrated a human body and when all present had been satisfied that the animal was dead, administered another shock which gradually brought it slowly restored to the animal to life.

The practitioners observed by Dr. Robinson were members of the New England Association for Physical Therapy, Boston, who held their annual convention here. The demonstration was made in the lecture hall of the Fidelity building where all the required electrical appliances were at hand.

It is Dr. Robinson's theory that person who has died by law in the electric chair can be revived by means of the same method, and that he can be restored to life by means of the same method. The electric shock can be administered by means of the same method, and that he can be restored to life by means of the same method.

TO DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS COPPER LIST

Very little can be expected of the present market for the present.

While underlying conditions do not encourage voluntary liquidation, yet it is probable that the market will be a little better than the present.

However, looking operations seem to be picking up in preparation for a campaign and new prices are forming in the market.

The situation is accentuated by the daily operations of a wall from the computer of the currency market, which is a little better than the present.

But at the moment the market is a little better than the present.

To be sure, the conservative reaction which may follow cannot be a permanent one, but it will be a little better than the present.

Unquestionably, the limited buying of the market is a little better than the present.

COPPER LEAD IN WALL ST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Copper shares and traction issues continued the features of the stock market in Wall Street today. The group of copper shares was headed by the New York Central, which advanced 2 1/2 points on hardy transactions. American Copper, also advanced. Profit taking developed in International Copper, which lost a point. Speculation was steady and fairly active.

Wall Street expected the bank statement to show a loss in cash of about $100,000,000. The strength of the general market was taken to mean that the large volume of business transacted in the situation with apprehension. The copper shares were fairly active. The New York Central, which had been in the lead, was steady. The stock of the American Copper, which had been in the lead, was steady. The stock of the International Copper, which had been in the lead, was steady.

You see the American everywhere in the home, city, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT
The weekly statement of assets of the associated banks, issued today, shows a decrease in cash of about $100,000,000.

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, NOVEMBER 13, 1909

It is generally conceded that the Boston American has a greater circulation than all the other Boston evening papers combined, and that it is as strong in Boston in the evening field as, for example, a paper of the combined strength of the Evening Journal and Evening World would be in New York City, or the Evening American and Evening News in Chicago.—Advertiser's Magazine.

WANTED: A Man Who Can DO a Real MAN'S Work

In any public gathering in which the problem of taxation is discussed you may be sure to find the gifted Nathan Matthews, Jr., with the laurel of Harvard still fresh on his brow, ready to take issue in favor of a lower tax rate, to explain how every existing tax system is wrong, unjust and illegal, and to plead frantically for economy in the public service.

If you listen carefully to what Matthews has to say, or if you read his printed argument, you will discover that he wants to HELP THE TAX-DOGGERS and make it easier for those who do not pay their just proportion of taxes to escape financial and legal responsibility, while at the same time paring down the expenses of the maintenance of the city and State government to a point where it would be difficult to pay the necessary running expenses, even on a moderate scale, without INVESTING any money that will bring to the city and State A GREATER FUTURE than they have ever known.

Matthews has had considerable experience on all sides of the tax question. What he says on any side of it is utterly unimportant. He is a discredited witness.

Isn't it about time that Boston began to look at things in a different way? The real basic trouble with Boston is that there are TOO MANY TAX-DOGGERS, too many rich men, who, through the connivance of officials or because of loopholes in the law, manage to escape their just proportion of taxation.

A great many of these tax-doggers do not live in Boston or even in New England. They live in New York and in Europe. They are the owners of very valuable downtown property, which has not been improved in years. Old ramshackle buildings without elevators, without electric light, without any of the modern conveniences encumber property that is increasing in value at the rate of 3 and 4 per cent a year. These properties are in the hands of smug-faced managers, who draw salaries from the absentee owners of from $5,000 a year up, and who, of course, will not listen to prospective purchasers for FEAR OF LOSING THEIR PAY.

Now, if these absentee land-owners were COMPELLED to pay their just proportion of taxes, they would not alone be plenty of money to spend for all the needs of the city, but there would be money to spare and a much lower tax rate as well.

The downtown or business district of Boston is so congested that it is IMPOSSIBLE for new capital from other parts of the country to come in here. Enormously valuable land is held at exorbitant prices. The means of transportation are almost primitive. The absurdity of two railroad stations, the South Station and the North Station, without any direct line of communication, is in itself one of the strangest features of life in a modern city.

If there be necessity for two stations, then there should be a subway that could be used for the traveling public and for freight.

The time is coming when the downtown streets WILL HAVE TO BE opened, widened and lengthened. No new capital can be drawn into Boston so long as the business district is held in a small congested tract, and neither can the purchasing public from all over New England be prevailed upon to buy the bulk of their goods here until the merchants themselves make the city what it ought to be in a mercantile way.

The strangely old-fashioned trolley cars on the leading downtown streets are an absurdity. If the present subway system is not adequate—and it is not—more subways should be built reaching in all directions, and the prehistoric trolley cars sent to the scrap-heap.

Suppose instead of talking all the time in public and private about what Boston is GOING TO DO, some really able man of the type of William McAdoo, who built the Hudson River tunnels, or A. J. Cassatt, who planned the enormous development of the Pennsylvania Railroad, or a hundred others, whose names might be mentioned, could be found to lay out and plan for a larger, better, newer Boston than at present, and who could show by a proper system of taxation, whereby the rich tax-doggers WOULD BE COMPELLED to pay their taxes, how twenty-five million, fifty million or even one hundred millions of dollars could be laid out by the city of Boston to develop it and widen its streets and to give it a transportation and subway system that is needed—would not such a man be LISTENED TO AND BACKED UP squarely in such an endeavor?

Think of the ramshackle old cars that are run on the suburban service from both the North and South stations, and then wonder why Boston's beautiful suburbs are not attracting home-seekers from other parts of the country?

These cars are unclean, badly heated, never adequately lighted and unfit for the use of transporting human beings. They are A SHAME AND A DISGRACE to the railroad companies and to the city.

Every other city in the United States is electrifying its suburban railroads. That means cleaner and better cars, more rapid transportation, good light, no smoke and cinders, and, generally, comfort in going from the downtown district to the home.

The railroads in and around Boston that have practically got Massachusetts by the throat have NOT EVEN BEGUN to discuss the question of electrification!

Where is the man that can take up some of these great problems, discuss them before the people, and begin to right these wrongs? There is nothing for him. He could MAKE BOSTON WHAT IT OUGHT TO BE.

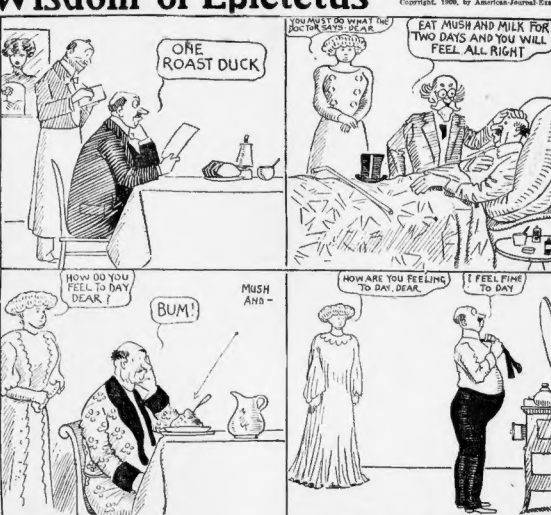

Men of the Matthews stripe have never yet built up a great city. They are too selfish. They are looking out for their own pockets all the time. They care nothing for the great mass of the people, and they care less about the future of the city in which they live. All they want is money.

- Fifth—A Corrupt Practices act that will limit election expenses to legitimate purposes and make men and not money, the deciding force in American politics;
- Sixth—Public ownership of public utilities, that the values created by the people shall belong to the people, and a referendum upon every public franchise, that no public servant shall have the people's property for his private gain;
- Seventh—The election of Senators by the people, and the judges for short terms, that no branch of government shall feel itself too far above the people or too long removed from the people.
